

Environmental

Now that we can all talk to each other, the richer countries can take advantage of this, to make environmental initiatives like TeamTrees. We can also share research on topics like this. TeamTrees managed to raise over $20 million, so what could a better funded initiative do?

Social

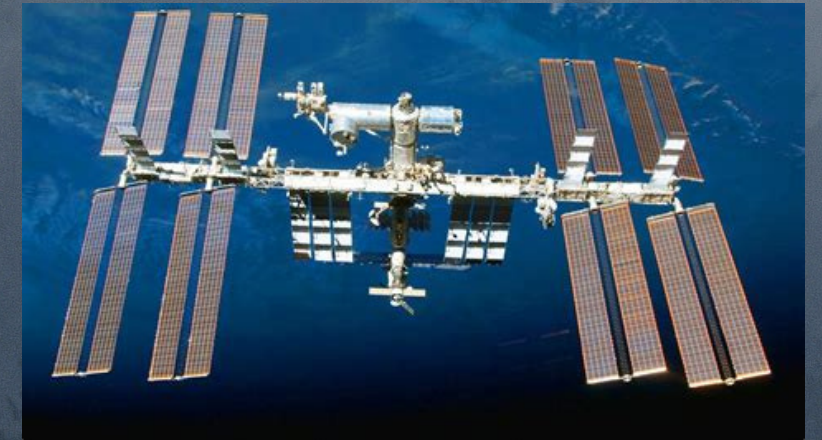

We can all talk to each other, and discuss things to avoid previous misconceptions. It can also allow for greater job opportunities abroad. Also, we can more easily talk to other people when we go places due to being able to harness the technology of other nations.

Cultural

We can now also go to more places to experience more cultures and become more rounded people. We can also use other cultures to everyone's advantage, for everything from culinary delight to previously lost knowledge.

GLOBALISATION ITS GREAT

Political

This also has lots of political ramifications. One such example is that there are now lots of stopgaps to reduce the chances of unfair rulers. It also helps some developing countries develop faster, which means more goods to use.

Economic

We now have a global stage to trade on, and countries can pool resources to make large global expenses easier. For example, the ISS costed over $100 billion, and no country would ever want to pay for that, but many countries working together would.
